

He Wanted to Fight With Guy Named Joe!

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—(UPI)—Tom Delaney, a Harlem night club owner, tried to trade punches at 3 a.m. today with a guy named Joe—Joe Louis, that is.

The heavyweight champion was leaving the Elmy Club with a party of friends, when Delaney took a few tentative swings at him. Police took the six-foot, 200-pound Delaney to the West 54th St. station, where Louis, James Glavin told him it was Louis he had challenged.

"Joe Louis," Delaney gasped. "Holy moses, I'm up to my neck in trouble."

At Utica, N. Y.

11 OF FAMILY PERISH IN FIRE

UTICA, N.Y., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Eleven members of one family perished today in a flash fire that swept a two-story frame dwelling in Utica's west side.

Eight bodies were recovered by firemen from the smoking ruins, six were children. One was a woman, clasping an infant.

Victims included Mrs. Ruth Hoage and nine children ranging in age from five months to 19 years. Mrs. Hoage was the second wife of Richard Hoage, 48. Also killed was Mrs. Shirley Hoage, 29, the wife of an older son of Richard Hoage.

FOURTEEN SCANTILY-VEiled persons fled from the burning building. Chief Leo Barry said, Dana Page, 38, his wife and 13-year-old daughter were sent to hospital with burns after jumping from a second-floor window.

The eleven persons who reached safety without apparent injury fled from the ruins while firemen searched.

Firemen found the charred body of three-year-old Dana Louise Hoage in the rubble. She was identified by her uncle, Dana Page, 38. The walls of the long ramshackle building collapsed before most of the second-floor occupants could get out, firemen said.

Mrs. HOAGE, 12, who jumped from a second-story porch into a snowbank told other members of her family waiting in the street to be rescued when the building collapsed.

She and three other survivors were taken to a nearby home. Firemen said they had accounted for 14 in the hospital and in neighboring houses.

Cause of the fire was not determined immediately. Mrs. Hoage gave this account: "I WAS SLEEPING with my six-year-old son, Shirley Hoage. There were 10 or 11 persons up stairs at the time."

"Shirley was up and started coughing. The room was filled with smoke. She grabbed me."

SERIAL STUDIES PLANNED 50-MILE OIL LINE ACROSS CANADA

Cost May Run As High As $40 Million

An oil pipeline costing between 30 and 40 million dollars, to carry crude oil from the Leduc field to refining plants in Moose Jaw and Regina is being considered by Imperial Oil Ltd., according to H. H. Hewitson, Imperial Oil president, in an interview in Edmonton Friday.

THE LINE WHEN completed would extend for some 500 miles over the prairies and would connect with other producing areas east. Mr. Hewitson said it probably would be a 36-inch or larger line and that construction would begin in the next two or three years.

Greatest difficulty attached to such an undertaking, according to the company president, is the shortage of steel required.

In planning such a venture, Mr. Hewitson said, it is necessary to look long way into the future, to determine if production is likely to be sufficient to justify the expenditure.

In the Leduc field itself, the company is planning the installation of gathering lines, compressors and other equipment for the saving of the findings of the board of directors.

Three-Province Baking Industry Probe Is Ordered

OTTAWA, Feb. 13.—(CP)—An inquiry has been launched under the Combines Investigation Act into an alleged combine of bread-baking firms in Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, Justice Minister Isley announced last night.

H. Carl Goldberger, Montreal lawyer, has been named special investigating commissioner and will leave shortly for the west to open the probe, Mr. Isley said.

The government's action—disclosed just 48 hours after the House of Commons price committee began inquiring into causes of the high cost of living—followed complaints that bakers in the three western provinces had made agreements fixing and increasing bread prices and otherwise "suppressing competition."

PREVIOUSLY, the bakery industry had been marked down as one of the first scheduled to be investigated by the common council.

Mr. Isley's statement on the alleged western combine declared that "considerable documentary evidence" already had been gathered by the combines investigation commission. In preliminary inquiries, Mr. Isley said.

The minister said Mr. Goldberger's investigation would be conducted in the west.

Cloth Imports Not Excessive

OTTAWA, Feb. 13.—(CP)—The increased prices of Canadian wool and other woolen clothing since last April was "very largely" due to the increase in the cost of imported cloth, the Commons price committee was told today by Kenneth Taylor, chairman of the prices board.

"I don't think there has been any holding back of cloth supplies," continued Mr. Taylor.

"The rise was principally a reflection of the rise in the cost of cloth imports. We have no evidence in the prices board that leads us to believe that there is anything improper or excessive in these price increases."

Earlier, Robert McCulloch (L.-Midwest) West had been heard to say that the increase in the cost of cloth imports was "very largely" due to the increase in the cost of cloth imports.

Mr. Taylor thought that an extreme case and pointed out that the price of raw cotton which Canada has to buy had gone up four times the previous price. This contributed to any price increase.

"The removal of subsidies had a very substantial effect on increased prices," the witness went on.

Indications are that the chilly weather will hold sway in the area for at least three or four days.

OTTAWA, Feb. 13.—(CP)—Agriculture Minister Gendron told the House today that the Canadian wool trade with the United Kingdom will be talked in the House shortly.

gas that is incidental to production of oil.

JUST WHAT USE will be made of this gas is not finally decided. Mr. Hewitson said some of it will be used in operation of drilling rigs, and it may be decided to return some to the underground oil reservoir.

Evening oil an absorption plant would be built in the field to treat this gas and make it available for industrial purposes. Such a plant would cost one and one-half to two million dollars.

Satisfaction in developments in the Leduc and Woodhead fields was expressed by Mr. Hewitson, who said he made the present trip to take stock of one year's developments in the fields. The first well in the area came into production just one year ago, Feb. 15, 1947.

IN THE LAST YEAR, he said, the company had completed 24 wells by the end of 1947 and now had 30 wells in production. During 1948, it is planned to drill 10 development wells in producing areas.

The company now has drilling rigs operating in the Leduc and Woodhead districts and it is not expected that any delays will be encountered. After scouting Canada and the United States, the company has secured sufficient casing and tubing to maintain the drilling program. Shortages of these materials delayed operations last year.

Mr. Hewitson voiced particular satisfaction over the Woodhead discovery, and said it had not yet been determined whether this well represented an extension of the Leduc field or a new pool of oil. He said it would take considerable drilling to determine the answer to this question.

He said the company in 1948 is planning the expenditure of 15 to 20 million dollars for drilling and exploration work in the province. It is planned, he said, to operate six drilling rigs on wildcat operations, and to maintain eight semi-active parties along with other survey parties doing exploratory work.

BY THE END OF 1948, Mr. Hewitson said, he expected the Leduc field would be producing about 15,000 barrels daily, and that by mid-1950 Western Canada fields would be producing sufficient to meet the capacity of refining plants in the area. Then, he said, it would no longer be necessary to import crude oil into Western Canada.

Increased oil consumption during the last year, according to Mr. Hewitson, means that increased production so far has done little to increase the proportion between Canadian production and Canadian requirements. At that time only one-tenth of the oil consumed in the country was produced here.

Mr. Hewitson said the refinery being erected east of Edmonton was expected to be in operation by the end of 1948. When completed it will have capacity to handle 4,000 barrels daily.

Portion of the new refinery—the unit for first step in refining crude oil—will be in operation by July, according to Mr. Hewitson. After passing through this unit, products will be shipped by tank car to Calgary for further refining. With respect to recent proposals for construction of gas pipelines to the Pacific Coast and to Winnipeg, Mr. Hewitson said the company had developed several areas from which this gas could be supplied. Pending approval of the scheme by the Alberta government, he said, Imperial Oil Ltd. was willing to consider offers for the project.

IN KEEPING with new regulations of the Alberta government dealing with oil leases, Mr. Hewitson said Imperial Oil had surrendered all rights on considerable acreage in the province.

Under the new regulations, no company may hold rights to more than 16 sections in any one township, and not more than 16 of the sections may be in a block.

Neither Mr. Simmonds nor other western bankers officials would comment on the Ottawa announcement that an inquiry had been set up under the Combines Investigation Act into an alleged combine of bread-makers.

A SURVEY OF BREAD prices across Canada showed Saint John, N.B., bakers charging 14 cents for 14 cents, while Halifax bakers charged 12 cents for 20-cent loaves.

Twenty-four out of 25 bakers in the survey reported an increase in bread prices. In Ottawa for 13 cents and in Toronto for 14 cents.

Twenty-ounce loaves retail for 11 cents in Vancouver, eight to 10 cents in Winnipeg. In Edmonton they sell for 10-12 cents in stores, 11-13 cents delivered by wagon. Regina prices average 12 cents, while in small rural Saskatchewan prices range from 13 cents each or two for 25 cents.

In Manitoba, where 16-ounce quoted at private hearings in "several" cases.

It was evident from Mr. Haley's statement that the bakery investigation was one of the most serious of the cases he announced. Five were being pursued under the Combines Investigation Act.

ONE OF THESE has been disclosed as involving manufacturers of dental supplies. The names of the others has not been disclosed. The justice minister told the commons on Feb. 5 that the major inquiries involve more than 50 companies, large and small, in various fields.

In addition, he said, a number of other cases are subject to less intensive investigation or are under consideration. He said that in one of the cases, he said, a report was expected before long. Reports in the others should be made in the next few months.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 12.—(CP)—Bread prices in Western Canada were described last night as not out of line with prices charged in eastern provinces, with increases over wartime levels being attributed mainly to the lifting of flour subsidies.

CHARLES SIMMONDS, secretary of the Master Bakers' Association at Edmonton, said current prices represent only slight increases since price controls were removed. He said that flour subsidies had been increased as a general rule.

Bread prices "had to go up" when flour subsidies were removed, he said.

Neither Mr. Simmonds nor other western bankers officials would comment on the Ottawa announcement that an inquiry had been set up under the Combines Investigation Act into an alleged combine of bread-makers.

A SURVEY OF BREAD prices across Canada showed Saint John, N.B., bakers charging 14 cents for 14 cents, while Halifax bakers charged 12 cents for 20-cent loaves.

Twenty-four out of 25 bakers in the survey reported an increase in bread prices. In Ottawa for 13 cents and in Toronto for 14 cents.

Twenty-ounce loaves retail for 11 cents in Vancouver, eight to 10 cents in Winnipeg. In Edmonton they sell for 10-12 cents in stores, 11-13 cents delivered by wagon. Regina prices average 12 cents, while in small rural Saskatchewan prices range from 13 cents each or two for 25 cents.

W. H. Jackson, Innisfail, was elected president of the Alberta Dairymen's Association at the closing sessions of the convention Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Jackson, Innisfail, A. J. Ottewill of Clover Bar.

ELECTED AS FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT was G. M. Carlyle, Calgary, and as second vice-president, J. H. Love, Edmonton. D. H. McCallum, Alberta Dairy Commissioner, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Directors of the association for the coming year are: Clarence Hendrickson, Banff, representing the province; R. H. Jackson, Calgary, for the cattle breeders; Ken Harton, Calgary, for the plant Producers selected R. P. Gibb, the Albert, as their representative, and G. M. Carlyle, Calgary, is representing the manufacturers. W. H. Jackson, Innisfail, and J. H. Love, Edmonton, were elected to the directorate from the convention.

Endorsement of the convention was given to a resolution forwarded from the Dairy Farmers of Canada with respect to the manufacture of oleomargarine. The resolution read in part: "We, the producers of milk in the province of Alberta, the Dairy Farmers' Association, representing 6,000 cream producers in Alberta, oppose most strongly any change in the present legislation forbidding the sale and manufacture within Canada of oleomargarine, a substance produced by the process of churning cream from other lands where a lower standard of living prevails than we wish to accept for Canadians."

IT WAS RECOGNIZED by the convention that anything that might weaken the dairy industry leaves are general, 10 cents is the average price.

Federal government investigators reviewed books and files of Edmonton bakers following a three-day rise in bread prices last fall, a group of bread makers' masters said on Friday.

THE MANAGERS, who asked that their names be withheld, said their books had been examined and all agreed that they did not know what came of the probe.

They were commenting on the news reports that an alleged combine existed in the province, which was an investigation that was being launched by the federal department of justice.

Seeks Agreement Alaska Highway

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Representative Charles Keating (Rep. Wis.) proposed yesterday that the United States and Canada immediately work out an agreement granting the United States military rights in the Alaska Highway.

"The United States already has no legal basis for the use of the Alaska Highway for military purposes should the necessity thereby arise," Keating said in a speech inserted in the congressional record last week.

The 1,500-mile highway—worth some $100,000,000—was built and operated by the United States during the last war.

However, Keating said, "that portion of the highway lying in Canada—1,257 miles of it—was completely turned over to Canada on April 1, 1946."

This agreement provided that the Canadian portion of the land-link to Alaska "become an integral part of the Canadian highway system subject to the understanding that any discriminatory conditions in relation to the use of the road as a highway for military or naval traffic shall be null and void."

He said the only purpose for which we may use the highway for civilian traffic and that only when we may use a Canadian road as a highway on the basis of non-discrimination.

OTTAWA, Feb. 12.—(CP)—Anytime the United States runs into an awkward situation in Canada, it can use the Alaska Highway as a lifeline.

That's what the informed Canadian sources of the highway's future in the light of a resolution introduced in the U.S. House of Representatives.

the republic and the subscription was in favor of the Italian Communist party for the legislative assembly election in Italy next April.

Police said that it was the first time they had been able to establish a definite link between the two parties.

The tickets offered other winning prizes including expense paid trips to London, Paris, Prague, Belgrade and other trips to sea shore resorts.

ISSUED ON "May Day 1947" and signed by Palmiro Togliatti, general secretary of the Italian Communist party, the tickets showed a mass of people at the masthead with the Communist crest covering the centre. The hammer and sickle and red flag with the letters C.C.I. (Partito Comunista Italiano) at the side partially covered a green, white and red Italian flag.

Police said that some of the correspondence acted included documents dating back to the Spanish civil war.

Police, however, declined to divulge if further action was being prepared, although investigation is still continuing.

No arrests were reported, but police said that some would be made later and that court summons would be issued.

Successfully Carried Out

Canadians Had Big Role Sicily Invasion

By Ross Munro

OTTAWA, Feb. 13.—(CP)—The last Canadian division in Sicily successfully carried out, in its first campaign, a far more important role than was originally intended.

By MAKING A LONG left hook through mountainous central Sicily and then, with the British 7th Division, hanging down on the German armor divisions on the southwestern slopes of Mount Etna they broke the last main enemy line. The campaign then rapidly wound up.

Army reports which will probably be made public shortly, support this view.

Fighting with the 1st Division was the Three Rivers Tank Regiment of the 1st Armored Brigade. The other two regiments in the brigade—the Calgary and the Ontario—were with the British to the east.

In the original plan, the Canadian role was to be fairly easy. They had not been in battle before and the Eighth Army filled them into a gap between the main British force and the American Seventh Army.

If everything had gone according to plan, it would have been a smooth and comparatively painless introduction to war.

But a few days after the Eighth Army, including the Canadians, landed on the southeastern tip of the island, the British forces fighting their way up the eastern coast, were stopped at the edge of the Catania plain.

It had been intended that the British divisions would sweep across the plateau, capture Catania and link up with the Americans coming in from the west.

WHEN THE HOLDUP occurred south of Catania, the British Sir Bernard Montgomery altered his tactics, and ordered the Cana-

Use New Method Calculating Money

By CHESTER BLOOM

OTTAWA, Feb. 13.—(CP)—Graham P. Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada, told a press conference today that the bank had adopted a new method of calculating the total money supply in Canada.

The bank's new look at our volume of money in the hands of the public eliminates from the total five-sixths of all savings banks deposits.

But even with these eliminations, the bank's annual report for the year 1947 shows the money supply in 1947 reached the enormous volume of nearly $400 million dollars—$394.4 million to be more exact.

That is more than three and a half times the total money supply in 1938 which, calculated on the same basis, totalled $108 million.

Reason for the elimination of five-sixths of savings banks deposits from the total is because that amount represents the average of savings accounts "inactive" that is against which no withdrawals are being made. Government deposits were eliminated because they are held in the hands of other countries and it was desirable to bring Canada into line with them for comparative purposes.

Mr. Towers said this was "one of the reasons" for raising the price level in Canada. Another was the expenditure in 1947 of $200 million of capital investment in new or expanded plants. But he held that $200 million did not add to the money supply since it represented expenditures of money already in the hands of Canadians. These investments in time would result in larger production helping to level down prices. He believed considerable effect of that product would be visible in 1948.

Dangerous Threats

By Clyde Blackburn

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—(CP)—President Truman, who hasn't said "yes" and who hasn't said "no" on the Democratic party candidacy, is almost hemmed in by more or less dangerous threats to the success of the Democratic party.

ON THE LEFT, there is Henry Wallace's third party, which is at least certain to gain the votes of many who ordinarily would vote for the Democratic ticket.

On the right, there are the big business interests, harried by big taxation and restrictions, and the isolationists, growing more militant against administration demands for universal military training and increased service appropriations.

Now there is a fresh threat from the rear—the new outburst of resentment from the solid south Democrats and threats to put their own candidate in as a protest against the President's attitude on civil rights.

Perhaps the last-named threat is the most dangerous of all. However, similar movements have started time after time without greatly affecting the last outcome.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN, or any other Democratic party nominee, will need the solid south's electoral college vote to win. But his recent request for legislation against lynching, the poll tax and against racial discrimination of all kinds through the southeners out fighting.

In 1944, Texas led a revolt against renewal of the Roosevelt New Deal administration and the movement constituted a peril to orderly election of President Roosevelt right up to election day.

But it all blew over and latest reports from the southeners is that the present movement may die down.

There is a strong belief, even among the southeners, that this is not the time to start a constitutional struggle over civil rights when the international situation is so delicate and this country's stake so high.

HERETOFORE, one great restraining influence on the southern Democrats, who are so often in dispute with their more liberal northern party colleagues, has been the matter of patronage.

Carrots, Parsnips Are Selling High

Escaped From Cell Into Another One

TOBACCO, Feb. 13.—(CP)—Produce dealers said yesterday that carrots, normally quoted at about $1.50 a bushel wholesale, are selling here at $3.50 a bushel. Current retail prices range from three pounds for 25 cents to 10 cents a pound.

Parsnips sold at about 12½ cents a pound retail, as against about 7½ cents a pound normally charged at this time of year.

William Jansson, fruit and vegetable consultant to the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, said he believed lack of imported produce had driven up the prices.

About the year 1960 tea was selling in England for $30 to $50 a pound.

Escaped From Cell

Into Another One

DUQUENAY, Ark. Feb. 13.—(AP)—A prisoner in the county jail left an apologetic note for the sheriff and escaped—from one cell to another.

Sheriff Verlie Cannon said the prisoner, U. D. Lambert, 41, was found Wednesday night hiding under a bunk in another cell after fleeing his own.

The sheriff said Lambert left a note last Saturday apologizing for "springing" the jail on the upper floor of the courthouse. He unlocked his door with an improvised key and disappeared. Lambert said he was unable to get out on the locked courthouses.

Now Is the Time

Premier Dupuis told the Quebec legislature his Government is prepared to pay 50 per cent of the cost of pensions for persons between 65 and 70 years of age if the Dominion Government will pay the other half.

Unless there are some strings attached—about which the despatches say nothing—that seems to put it up to the other provinces to say whether they are willing to strike a bargain on that basis. If they are willing, there is a definite prospect that the long-discussed lowering of the pensionable age may be made.

There can hardly, at this stage, be any wide difference of opinion as to the need of making pensions available at 65 years for those who cannot find employment or are no longer able to work. Private industry long ago set this as the age for retirement on pension. The railways, the largest employers of labor in the country, have adopted 65 as the pensionable age, and most other concerns which have pension schemes have accepted that as the age limit.

The need for lowering the national pension-age to 65 is less apparent now than in normal times, because many persons beyond that age are able to hold jobs when labor is relatively scarce. But as post-war conditions fade out, so will the chances of employment for older people grow longer. There is a good time to prepare for that inevitable fact of life as the employment situation. Lowering the pensionable age is one way to do this.

Wealthy Tax-Dodgers

Officials in the city's assessment department are said to be worried over the amount of property the Provincial Government has bought in Edmonton, because such property has to be struck off the city's tax rolls. The Edmonton house-holders who could be assessed for more than $7,000,000 if it were in private hands. Lots and buildings bought during the last two years formerly paid $100,000 per year taxes, and now pay nothing. The Provincial Government is not the only owner. The Dominion Government now owns precisely the same thing. Neither of them pays property-taxes to the city. Nor to any other city. Neither Edmonton nor centres in Alberta are being singled out for discrimination. Wherever across Canada a provincial government or the federal government has acquired a lot and puts up a building, municipal taxation of that property stops. Which of course means that the other taxpayers have to make up what the governments refuse to pay.

This exemption for government property is based on a hoary tradition, which long ago ceased to be anything more than a time-honored excuse for dodging municipal taxation. The alibi offered is that when a government buys or puts up a building in a community it brings in a lot of people to work there, and since this increases business in the town it shouldn't have to pay any taxes.

Just why railway companies and industrial corporations couldn't put up the same argument has never been explained. But if they did so, and made it stick, some towns in Canada would go broke.

It is pretty small matter on the part of the senior governments to sponge on the cities for fire protection, police protection, and all the other civic services without which their business could not be satisfactorily carried on. They should in common fairness make grants to the cities in consideration of these services rendered, if they are not prepared to go the whole way and pay taxes like private residents and corporations have to do.

One Nation Among Many

Mr. Graham Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada, says in his annual report that "every measure of price and wage control" was actually imposed during the war would have been required to prevent a post-war spiral in Canada.

The Commons' investigating committee heard the same thing from Mr. Kenneth Taylor, chairman of the House of Commons board. He said the explanation of rising prices in Canada lay largely outside the Dominion. For the reason that Canada cannot control the prices of things which have to be imported.

Illustrating how these uncontrolled items helped to push up the price level in Canada, Mr. Taylor mentioned vegetable oil, which are imported and cost five times the pre-war price; cocoa beans, which cost six times what they did in 1939; and raw cotton, now costing more than twice the pre-war price.

This list could be extended indefinitely. There isn't a commodity that can be bought abroad for the 1939 price; very few essentials which can be got for less than twice the pre-war figure. Because of its latitude Canada is a heavy importer, and no is any Canada-larity situated country. Naturally, producers under in the tropics and sub-tropics are making use of their opportunity; and we have to pay what they demand.

The other side of the picture is that Canada couldn't hold down the price of home-produced commodities without imposing loss on Canadian producers. Directly or through subsidies, prices of these commodities in Canada have to approximate prices outside if Canadian producers are not to be made to suffer discrimination.

Rigid restriction of both imports and exports would be necessary to make a price-control system work in these circumstances. Economically Canada has to be either in the world or out of it. If we are going to get the advantages of being in the world when we have things to sell, there is no way to insulate ourselves from the influence of outside conditions and price trends.

All Out of Tune

Most people would be stumped if they were asked to define "anti-democratic" music, or even identify it by ear. But not so the Central Committee of the Communist Party at Moscow. These experts can, so they say, detect the politics of a music-maker from the sound of his compositions, perhaps from the tone of the bass and the wailing of the strings. And they find that Russian composers have not been making war record in the Soviet orchestra, have in fact been injecting sour notes, with a capitalistic tone.

So the Committee called the composers on the carpet, told them to stop doing Bolsheviks with music which "smell" of non-communist sentiment, and to get busy and create "a realistic Soviet art." It is to be hoped the chastened composers will be able to comply. If Soviet music would be as rich in distinction, variety and color as that of the world, a Moscow symphony would resemble nothing so much as the concatenation of a jazz band at a circus.

One recalls that Hitler took a somewhat similar line as the Central Committee. He, too, undertook to drag down genius, and was going to charm the world with a new and what-not breathing the spirit of Nazism. But the net result was that no Nazi composer produced anything the world thinks worth listening to. The precedent can hardly be encouraging to the gentlemen whom the Central Committee has ordered to turn out music flavored to order, like sausages.

Outsiders may sympathize with the castigated composers, and await with some interest to see whether the Central Committee will have any better luck than Adolf in getting his composers to set to music. Mainly, however, they will wonder how long it will take before the Central Committee will have a dictatorial cap on the Russian people with the pretense that "democracy" consists in regimenting everything from the growing of turnips to the writing of musical "classics."

Looking Backward

From The Bulletin Files

1888: 60 Years Ago
Lord Stanley of Preston has been appointed governor-general of the Dominion of Newfoundland. Lord Lansdowne succeeds Lord Dufferin in India.

1908: 40 Years Ago
A serious rail blockade continues in Manitoba and farmers are showing signs of discontent. A bill was brought down in the legislature yesterday providing for the establishment of an industrial school for the blind.

1918: 30 Years Ago
At the conclusion of the sitting on Friday the legislature adjourned until February 26th to allow Premier Stewart to attend a conference at Ottawa with the federal cabinet.

1928: 20 Years Ago
The city council decided to plan for the erection of a west wing and a nurses' home at the Royal Alexandra hospital.

1938: 10 Years Ago
City commissioners hoped for some easing of the city's relief burden by saying that the province of Alberta assesses cities not more than ten per cent of their total revenue for relief purposes.

BRIDGE

THE WINNERS WALK OFF WITH 36 CENTS IN CASH

By Dorothy Thompson
I hardly think that most of us now—say 15—a trifling comment will exist in one of the most critical of the world's problems. It is that day the British will pull out, and thereafter there will be no government. It is a definition of anarchy. It has been said that the Palestine problem is the first great test of the United Nations. If so, God help the U.N.

For absolutely no reason at all, the U.N. has done for the conclusion of the British mandate, which will leave the mist of bitter communal strife. Two weeks before the end, the Palestine Committee—a Czech, a Bolivian, a Dane, a Filipino, and a Panamanian—are to move into and take over an area whose disorders have baffled and defeated the British.

Enforcement
People ask: who will "enforce" the partition, decisions of the committee? The prior question even to that is: Who will govern? Two Palestines are envisaged—a Jewish and an Arab—but at the same time, the country is to remain an economic unit temporarily under an economic board. Who will control this board? It is designed to mix Jewish and Arabians, but the Arabs have given notice that they will not cooperate or participate.

Then how will common services be enforced? At the same time, will take over the railroads, electric, aviation, post office, and other services. The native Palestine government staffs are being cut. The British will have to do the job, they will quit. If the U.N. has no commission any staff to take over?

Jump Clear
Why are the British insisting on pulling out within a year of the conclusion of the mandate? Unquestionably because, being completely devoid of a solution in their own minds, they want to jump clear for their own good.

Who is going to police Palestine? It is all very well to send a U.N. force there, but if any force goes, it will have to be the force of one nation. The United Nations do not have the foggiest notion of what police a condition of anarchy means. Any force must carry out the instructions of a government. Where will be the government? The five undersecretaries of state will have to administer positions which will, with Jews, those now Arab will have to operate in Arab territory. Would it be like to be a postmaster in Arab territory for the next five years?

Trivia
A stationery shop is displaying a sign that reads: "Valentine Cards For All Occasions." Ultra feminine fashions are being emphasized in the London spring and summer collections shown by the Society of London Fashion Designers to the extent that they make all last season's clothes completely out of date. The first show presented up with, and a young girl from the ground and skirt extremely light, so full that twelve to sixteen girls were not unusual. Alternately circulated, it was used or all-round double or triple belt pleats or crystal pleats. The effect is so that the dress is like a last season's in the first decade of the century, with a small, large hips, often flared, a small waist, and a high, often flared skirt, and a high, often flared skirt, and a high, often flared skirt.

Show No Mercy

By Jack Scott
I liked the essay of old Nat Gubbin on the price of the columnist. Old Nat wrote that he thought it was a good idea to show no mercy to a columnist, or even once a week, the way lucky old Nat works. It seems to me the real test of a columnist is not in writing a column but in writing a column with yourself as the subject.

A few days ago on a street corner I overheard two men talking. The first said he didn't like the last sentence of an article he had just read. The second said he didn't like the first sentence of an article he had just read. The first said he didn't like the last sentence of an article he had just read. The second said he didn't like the first sentence of an article he had just read.

The Warning
Maybe columnists should take time out every so often to explain their peculiar stand. The columnist's platform as it were it would read something like this: "I am a columnist. Here is a column by a fellow who is being paid money to write about me. I am a columnist. Here is a column by a fellow who is being paid money to write about me. I am a columnist. Here is a column by a fellow who is being paid money to write about me."

Some Hazards
With a paper like this, read by me, I am sure that there will always be a strong group of dissenters. Let me give you a few reasons. If I write of family life I get letters from people who say they are too busy to read anything so trivial. If I write of family life I get letters from people who say they are too busy to read anything so trivial. If I write of family life I get letters from people who say they are too busy to read anything so trivial.

Prelude to Chaos
The electricity of Palestine is supplied by a private company formerly Jewish-owned. The main power station is in the north, at the Syrian and Trans-Jordan frontier, wide open to attack and sabotage.

Smiles
"Did you have to learn to write and speak French when you were at school?"
"Yes, sir."

Believe It or Not
The traveller in the railway carriage had eaten a large party with a few moments later he was disabled by a heart attack. The patient, who had been travelling for some time, was taken to a hospital.

By Ripley
Every experience brought me back to England with a broader mind and a greater belief in myself than ever before. The meeting with my friends and relatives, however, after the initial joy proved disappointing. I found them narrow-minded, prim and unelastic. Unable to see things beyond their nose they became aware of their own limitations.

Ban Against Union Leaders Is Lifted

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—(AP)—The ban against three British Columbia officials of the International Woodworkers of America (I.W.O.) entering the United States has been lifted, government authorities said last night.

They were excluded not because of their membership in the party, Panelli reported, but because the party had passed a resolution urging distribution of a document which included the basic principles of Socialism and Communism.

Denmark has excellent roads from Skagen, at the northern tip of the country to Padborg on the southern border.

Crainville Mayor Gives Resignation
CRAINVILLE, Alta., Feb. 13.—(CP)—Mayor William Anderson, of Crainville, Alta., has tendered his resignation after 13 consecutive years in office. Mr. Anderson was one of the first councillors elected in 1919 and served in that capacity until 1935. He was 85 in 1935.

They were excluded not because of their membership in the party, Panelli reported, but because the party had passed a resolution urging distribution of a document which included the basic principles of Socialism and Communism.

Biggest Plane May Be First, Last for U.S. Army

The U.S. air force admitted today that while it has bought the world's largest land plane—the Consolidated-Vultee C-96, shown here—it doesn't know just what to do with it and has no desire to buy more. Statistics revealing it was 182 feet long, 37 feet high and would carry 400 fully equipped soldiers were released by the air force. Most aeronautical engineers would have said the C-96 could land only on three or four feet of ground, and as for outside the country. One U.S.A.F. spokesman said: "It taught us a lot of things. It taught us not to buy any more."

Plan New Arena At Dawson Creek

DAWSON CREEK, Feb. 13.—Plans for the construction of a new and modern arena in Dawson Creek were made here by the Dawson Creek Civic Club.

The proposed arena will have an ice surface of 85 feet by 200 feet and will have a seating capacity for about 2,000 persons. Plans for the building have been drawn by Charles Hamilton, consulting engineer at Vancouver.

Says Inflation Heavy On Vets

REGINA, Feb. 13.—(CP)—Delmar S. Vallou (Armed Services) said in the Saskatchewan legislature yesterday that the returned veteran was fighting a losing battle against attempts of "big capitalists" to "freeze out small businessmen."

Veterans settled under the Veterans' Land Act were "not particularly contented" with their lot, and the sudden spurt of inflation since the end of the war had borne more heavily against them than it had against other classes. Mr. Vallou said in the resumed those speech debate.

John Wellhouse (C.C.F.—Kerobert-Industries) said that in the three years since the C.C.F. government took office, electric power had been extended to more farm areas than in the last 35 years. Mentioning C.C.F. debt, hospital and education legislation, he said it was "good" to be associated with a government that gave so much consideration to people with few material possessions.

Mr. Vallou said "no Communist group has been more successful in boring from within and capturing whole organizations than has private enterprise," while Chambers of Commerce, the National Association of Manufacturers, the press and radio had ranged themselves against the Saskatchewan government.

Released On Bail Pending Appeal

MONTREAL, Feb. 13.—(CP)—Mrs. Madeleine Perreault, a Montreal housewife, textile union organizer convicted at St. Jerome and sentenced to two years on charges arising from a strike at a textile mill, was released on $5,000 after five years pending appeal of an appeal. They were found guilty of sedition, conspiracy and conspiracy to interfere with workers. The outgrowth of a strike last spring in Lachine.

Tie-Up Threatens

CAIRO, Feb. 13.—(Reuters)—Egypt is threatened with a complete paralysis of air and road traffic following a strike yesterday of Cairo gasoline station attendants who are demanding a higher cost-of-living allowance.

Bridge

By William E. McKenney
Today's hand presents a problem and a little humor. I received it from Ralph E. de Castro, New York advertising man. He held the East hand, his wife West.

After a good deal of pondering South bid six spades. When his partner, the outgrowth of a strike last spring in Lachine.

De Castro started to figure that if the opponent made their contract, over to dummy's ace, South showing out. Next he led dummy's heart, fanned the queen and again South showed out. He cashed the ace of hearts, discarding a club from dummy, then proceeded to ruff out hearts and spades. On the third spade North should have discarded the four of clubs, but instead he got mad and trumped with his good queen of diamonds. So East just discarded a club and went down only one.

He was explaining what a nice bid he had made when Mrs. de Castro accidentally said, "I would have set the contract because I would have taken a club trick."

"You certainly would not," replied Mr. de Castro, "because he would have trumped your opening bid. I would have set the contract because I would have taken a club trick."

However, his wife had an answer. "I would have set the contract because I would have taken a club trick."

For my own comfort, I would not recommend the six spade bid, because if North held the ace of clubs, they ought to be able to make it. Also, if North held the ace of hearts and ace of diamonds, and South opened with spades, North probably would go to 11.

And so on and so on into the night.

For my own comfort, I would not recommend the six spade bid, because if North held the ace of clubs, they ought to be able to make it. Also, if North held the ace of hearts and ace of diamonds, and South opened with spades, North probably would go to 11.

Would He Do a Flicker
On a Stock Market Ticker?

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Suppose you wanted to compose a piece of music to the glory of capitalism. What would you do?

Would your drummer hammer a cash register instead of a cymbal?

Or instead of a rat-a-tat-tat on a covered plat, would he do a flicker on a stock market ticker?

Well, don't let the idea upset your grace notes. For J. Pauline Crist, Sr., who has composed pieces played in the best society, he said it can't be done.

"Preposterous," said Crist, in answer to this reporter's question. "There's no way to put a political idea across by music."

The whole thing was started by the Russians. They came out Wednesday night, Feb. 10, at some of their own composers, including such big leaguers as Dmitri Shostakovich and Sergei Prokofiev.

The central committee of the Communist party said these composers are toying with ideas which are "survivals of bourgeois ideology nurtured by influence of the modern decadent music of Western Europe and America."

Having dusted off the central committee, Crist was now ready for Shostakovich and Prokofiev. "The Soviets would have been on firmer ground," he said, "if they had left the political angle out of it."

"Frankly, I detest Soviet music," he crossed-out, and it's known, and it isn't music.

THE central committee figured it was high time the Communists started grinding out communist music.

If music can be Communist, why can't it be capitalist, too? Which brings us back to Crist. "Idiotism," he said, "music can be written only by inspiration—or maybe it's desperation. Certainly no one can tell you how a fine piece of music should be done."
